Department of International Business and Trade

Department of International Business and Trade;

Academic training is provided in two different programs; International Trade and Logistics Graduate Master Program and International Business Management Graduate Master Program.

The main aim of the International Trade and Logistics Graduate Master Program is to investigate the commercial activities and logistics operations, which are carried out at an intense competition environment, under empirical and theoretical context. The main aim of the International Business Management Graduate Master Program is to conduct scientific research on the marketing, finance, human resources, management and organization processes in multinational companies and to ensure that their corresponding results are applied to the real sector.
